

HOWARD SADBERRY'S FEATURED PICKS

Friday, June 7, 2019

Race 2

#6 Konza Khrome

6

The rail horse will be awfully tough with her speed, toying with 5 competitors against easier last time by over 9 lengths. This is a tougher test, and there is a lot of speed. I will take a shot at a price with Konza Khrome, who has been off since January when Dale Bennett claimed her for 5k. She has been working well, and he must like the way she is going, thus stepping her up in class. She has the ability to stalk a hot pace and could be ready to fire fresh from just off the pace.

HOWARD SADBERRY'S FEATURED PICKS

Saturday, June 8, 2019

Race 7

#2 Ghaaleb's Appeal

2

This is a very good betting races and I am taking a swing with a price shot, Ghaaleb's Appeal from the barn of Scott Becker. She beat easier at FP last time, but has been in the money in seven of eight career races. She will need her best and hoping she doesn't get into a speed duel, but this is a filly that could be over looked and could make some noise.

HOWARD SADBERRY'S FEATURED PICKS

Saturday, June 8, 2019

The Belmont Stakes

#10 Tacitus

10

The Belmont is always an interesting race with the distance, the sandy surface and the fresh horses. My pick is Tacitus who was lights out with 3 straight wins coming into the Derby and he ran well closing strongly at Churchill Downs. Spinoff has plenty of talent, Todd Pletcher knows how to win the Belmont and I have always been high on this one. He didn't sire in the Derby, but has tactical speed and could make some noise, while the Japanese horse, Master Fencer ran a deceptively good Derby and may make a late charge.

HOWARD SADBERRY'S FEATURED PICKS

Sunday, June 9, 2019

Race 1

#6 Smokey Row Mac

6

I think the 6 ½ furlongs is right up Smokey Row Mac's alley as he was charging going 7f last time out. Appears to be rounding into form. He's an eight year old and his style won't change----he falls back and comes running and I believe there is enough speed in here to set up his late run in the opener.

